

TESOL Working Paper Series

ISSN 2573-1467

CALL FOR CONTRIBUTIONS

Editor: Dr. Hanh thi Nguyen

Aim and Scope: The TESOL Working Paper Series is published by the TESOL Program at Hawai'i Pacific University is dedicated to the dissemination of academic work on topics related to the teaching and learning of second languages, with specific emphasis on the teaching of English to speakers of other languages. Papers included in the Series should be relevant to theoretical and practical issues in second language teaching and contribute to current and future teachers' understanding of theory and practice in second language teaching. The Series publishes papers in the following categories:

- original empirical research with implications for teaching
- critical and synthesized literature reviews with practical teaching applications
- reflective essays bringing together theory and practice
- original and practical ideas for teaching in the form of lesson plans or teaching materials
- book reviews

Distribution: The TESOL Working Paper Series is published online on the website of the Department of English & Applied Linguistics. It is released annually in December. The Series is listed with HPU's Library and indexed in Google's Scholar. The Series is licensed under the Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-No Derivative Works 3.0 United States License. The Series does not charge publication fee.

Paper Formatting: Papers submitted to the Series must be well written, free of language errors, and strictly follow the current APA style of formatting (see Purdue's Online Writing Lab). Papers should be 5,000-7,000 words. Essays and book reviews should be around 3,000 words. Teaching materials or lesson plans may vary in length.

Submission Deadlines: There are two deadlines per year, January 31st and September 15th. Please send your paper as an email attachment to Dr. Hanh Nguyen at hnguyen@hpu.edu.

Decision: The editor of the Series, together with the TESOL faculty, makes final publication decisions based on the scope and quality of the submitted paper and subsequent revisions.